Gentlemen. In assuming the discharge of the duties of the honorable station to which your kindness has raised me, my own feelings, as well as custom, prompt me to tender you in return my most grateful thanks.

A just estimate of my ability to discharge those duties acceptably to you, would perhaps impel me to shrink from the task, were it not that I feel I may rely with the fullest confidence not only upon the ability of gentlemen, but upon their willingness also to afford me all the aid necessary to its performance.

For errors of judgment I cannot hope to be exempt—from those of intention only, do I promise myself and you, gentlemen, to be free. I bespeak then, your candor and forbearance towards me in the varied and difficult positions in which I shall probably find myself placed—begging to assure you that such talents as I possess, shall be earnestly and honestly exerted to serve you in your endeavors to promote the interests and welfare of the people of the State.

His Excellency the Governor then made to the Legislature the following

ADDRESS:

Fellow-Citizens of the Senate,

and of the House of Representatives:

Having been elected to the office of Chief Executive Magistrate for the ensuing political year, I avail myself of this opportunity of tendering to you, and through you, to the people of this State, my grateful acknowledgments for the distinguished honor conferred upon me.

Be assured that no effort shall be wanting on my part to execute the trust confided to me in such a manner as to maintain the principles of our free institutions, and secure the just and equal rights of the whole people.

On entering upon the discharge of our responsible duties our hearts should be filled with gratitude to the giver of all gifts for the blessings of civil and religious liberty which we enjoy, and for the health and happiness which He has, for the past year, vouchsafed to the people of this State.

We are here assembled as the representatives of intelligent freemen, the untiring and devoted friends of their country and government, men jealous of the influence of power, persevering in the cause of popular liberty.

The public duties which devolve upon us are of the most important character; and in the performance of these high and responsible trusts, it becomes us all to lay aside that bitterness and strife of party feeling, which tends to prejudice the mind and control the better judgment. It should be our aim in our public acts to advance the greatest good of all our constituents. "Our sympathies, hopes and energies should be exerted for the many and not for the few."

Notwithstanding the pecuniary embarrassments, the extraordinary distress, which so generally pervade our land, the people of New Hampshire have much cause for gratulation that they are to a great extent exempted from the evils, which so heavily press upon other sections of our country. We have much reason to rejoice that so much prosperity and success has attended the efforts of the various classes of our industrious community.

On an occasion like this, a recurrence to the principles of our State and General Governments, cannot fail to produce the most salutary influence, and well prepare us for an honest, faithful and uncompromising discharge of our respective duties.

That ever memorable controversy which resulted in the establishment of our country's independence, was a contest between liberty and tyranny, between an arrogant aristocracy on the one side and an unyielding democracy on the other. And under the guidance of a benevolent and superintending Providence, the result of such a conflict must have been anticipated, and was all-glorious to the cause of liberty and of equal rights.

It was the spirit that induced the war of the Revolution, which gave the impress to our institutions, and fixed the character of our General and State Governments.

To preserve the independence and liberty of the people—to afford security and protection in the enjoyment of those rights which belong to freemen, were among the objects of our political fathers in framing our State Constitution. Faithfully have they accomplished their purpose.

An examination of the supreme law of New Hampshire will show that the great principles of personal liberty, of just and equal rights, have been most carefully incorporated into our Constitution ; and although it is now nearly half a century since that instrument was sanctioned and approved by the people, yet during that long period it has undergone no change. This fact of itself is not only evidence of its liberal provisions, but is also evidence of the wisdom, sagacity and forecast of our political fathers, and this fact should induce us who now occupy their places, and to whom has descended this rightful inheritance of freemen, to study that sacred instrument with a fixed determination to learn and maintain its principles inviolate—to imbibe some portion of the catholic spirit of those great and good men in urging us forward to the support of the cause of equal rights and equal privileges.

There is a necessary and intimate relation between the States and the General Government.

In the formation of the Constitution of the United States, the powers conferred by the people were fully and expressly defined, and "the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

The States are sovereign and independent members of the Union, acting upon all questions of internal police as to them shall seem fit, accountable not to Congress, but to their own people for their own actions.

The General Government may well be regarded as the agent of the respective States, to discharge its appropriate duties and to execute its constitutional powers for the benefit of the whole confederacy.

So long as these two political bodies shall, in their course of action, be confined within their constitutional limits, the sovereignty of the States will never be endangered by the acts of the General Government. The harmony of the whole system will be most happily preserved, and the Union faithfully maintained.

But there is great danger to be apprehended from the legislation and influence of the General Government.

Recent events cannot fail to alarm the fears of the patriot, and to induce the apprehension, that if the liberty of the American people shall at any future period of our history be lost—if the independence of the States shall become extinct—if the harmony and perpetuity of our free institutions shall be prostrated—it will be traced to the unwarrantable legislation of the General Government—to the assumption and exercise of powers on the part of Congress not expressly delegated by the Constitution.

There is no one power which can be exercised by Congress more fraught with danger to the peace and harmony of the Republic, than its taxing power; whenever this power shall be abused, whenever its legitimate purposes shall be perverted, it cannot fail to create distrust and weaken confidence in our National Government.

The only legitimate use which can be made by Congress of its taxing power, is to bring money into the public treasury for the public use.

The power to borrow money and the power to lay duties can only be exercised for the same object.

The collection of revenue is the only effect which can constitutionally result from the exercise by Congress of its taxing power.

It was once said by a late distinguished Senator of the United States, that while the taxing power looked to the collection of revenue for the purpose of paying the debts, providing for the common defence and general welfare of the United States, the land power was entirely silent upon that matter, and hence he inferred that in the exercise of this same land power; that is, the power to dispose of the territory of the United States; the object was not revenue. This deduction is wholly unwarrantable; the Constitution gives to Congress power to borrow money upon the credit of the United States, and also the power to dispose of the territory and other property of the United States, and the Constitution is equally silent as to the disposition of the revenue which shall be obtained by either mode. No American Statesman has ever been bold enough to maintain that Congress can constitutionally apply a dollar, borrowed upon the credit of the United States, but for public use. And it will not be pretended by any man, that Congress has the power to lay taxes, direct or indirect, for the purpose of distribution. These remarks have been made in consequence of the passage, by Congress, at its extra session in 1841, of an act providing for the distribution among the States of the proceeds of the sales of the public lands. The act in question must have received the assent of Congress, upon the ground that the United States held these lands in trust for the separate States—that the proceeds rightfully belonged to them, and that the passage of the act was demanded to execute the trusts and uses for which the General Government was put in possession of this property ; or that under the general power conferred upon Congress “to dispose of the public territory,” is included the power to make such disposition of the public domain itself, or such a distribution of the proceeds of the public lands, as should be deemed expedient.

There is not to be found an expression in any of the deeds of cession to the United States, which reserves these lands for the separate and sole use of the respective States, or which grants them to the United States, as trustees for the individual members of the confederacy. They were conveyed for the common benefit of those States which were then, or which should thereafter become members of the federal alliance—they were given to create a common fund to meet the charges incident to the prosecution of a common cause.

This portion of the public domain thus obtained, became the property of the United States absolutely and unconditionally ; and that portion acquired by treaties with France and Spain, and embraced within the limits of Louisiana and the Floridas, was purchased with the treasure of the whole country, and became also the property of the whole country.

The respective States, then, can have no more separate interest in the public lands, than in any other portion of the public property. Our public domain, like all other public property, was acquired by the energies and treasure of the whole country.

The power given to Congress by the Constitution, to dispose of the public territory, is not broad enough and “sufficiently comprehensive” to include the power to distribute.

This power is specific ; it gives to Congress authority to dispose of the public lands, but it goes no further. Congress has no more power to abstract from the treasury that portion of the revenue derived from the sales of the public lands, and distribute it to the States, than it has gratuitously to grant the public domain. Believing, as I most conscientiously do, that no such power exists in either case—that the avails of the public lands are but portions of the public revenue, and can no more be applied for the use of the separate States than that part of the revenue derived from imposts—I cannot, in the performance of the high and responsible duty which devolves upon me, fail to recommend to the Legislature to give no authority for receiving into our treasury the money assigned to New Hampshire, according to the terms of the act distributing the proceeds of the sales of the public lands among the States. Should the effect of such a proceeding be to leave in the public treasury this portion of the public revenue, we shall have the satisfaction of having done our duty, in preventing so much of the public money from being withdrawn from the public use. But if the effect shall be to take from the public treasury this portion which was designed to be given to New Hampshire and divide it among the less reluctant States, we shall have left the abiding and sustaining reflection that we have done all that we could do, to stay the progress of this evil—we shall have acted in a manner befitting our principles. If we believe that this treasure belongs not to us, we should not receive it.

If we believe that it is a portion of our national revenue—if we believe that it has been abstracted from the public treasury in violation of the Constitution—we are bound to reject the offer.

It would ill accord with that steadfast devotion to the principles of our government—to that lofty spirit of patriotism and State pride—to that love of liberty and independence for which the people of New Hampshire have been so long and deservedly commended—to receive this bounty at the hands of the General Government.

It cannot be disguised that the effect of abstracting from the national treasury a portion of the revenue for distribution, will be to produce a deficit to the same amount in our national means. This deficit will have to be supplied by additional duties upon our imports. And this necessity is one of the sad consequences which must result from the adoption of this measure. An increase of our tariff of duties cannot fail to create those local jealousies, those sectional feelings, those heart burnings and animosities, calculated to disturb the harmony of our system and the good order of our community.

It is the voice of wisdom and patriotism to give such a character to our general legislation, as will inspire the confidence and command the support of the whole Republic. Our national resources should be faithfully and prudently managed; and Congress should impose no taxes upon the people, but for the necessary support of our Government. Economy with States as well as with individuals, is an essential virtue, and should be most rigidly observed. Whatever shall be required for an honest and just support of our government, will be promptly supplied by the tax-payers of the country—whatever shall be exacted beyond this, will engender the most unpatriotic feelings.

A system of duties, uniform throughout the United States, Congress has the power to impose. Such a system, however, can only be established for revenue, to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare. Beyond this, Congress cannot constitutionally go, either in imposing direct or indirect taxation. A tariff of duties which gives protection to one class of our citizens, may in its operation be unequal and oppressive to others, and if so, can have none of the qualities of an uniform system which alone Congress has the power to establish.

It would be difficult to find a reason in favor of the general policy of this distribution measure. At a time like this, when the revenue of our National Government is exhausted—when it has been compelled to resort to every expedient for a supply of the means necessary for its support—when one issue of treasury notes has followed close upon another—when in a season of peace we are forced into the money market, and reduced to the humiliating necessity of making loans or suffering dishonor—at a time like this, when in a little more than a year we have seen an entire revolution in the financial condition of the country—when at the close of the last administration, our means were abundantly sufficient to meet our liabilities, with a temporary debt which the accruing revenue would readily have extinguished—with our expenditures so reduced and so reducing that our annual charge would have been balanced by our annual income—with a character untarnished, with a credit at home and abroad unsuspected—and when in a single year, under a new administration, a debt of more than twenty millions has been fastened upon the country, and our annual expenditures have been greatly increased—it must alarm the patriotism of the country that the Congress of these United States, in the midst of these embarrassments, should assent that one fifth of the ordinary revenue of the Government should be withdrawn from the national treasury and distributed among the States.

It is to be feared that the indebtedness of some of the States may have induced the adoption of this measure. It is to be feared that there is an influence in active operation to effect the assumption of the State debts by the General Government. It would, indeed, be difficult to account for some of the developments of the past year upon any other principle. It would be difficult to account for the passage of the distribution bill upon any other principle. Deeply as we all must regret the pecuniary embarrassment of some of the States of this Union, much more deeply should we regret any movement looking to an assumption by the General Government of these sectional liabilities. New Hampshire is, we have reason to rejoice, unincumbered with debt. The economy, prudence and intelligence of her people, have caused her annual expenditures to be less than those of most of the other members of the confederacy, and while they would be ready to meet every exaction to sustain the honor of the General Government, they would be reluctant to submit to any taxation to discharge the liabilities of others.

At the same extra session of Congress, another act was passed equally opposed, in my judgment, to the letter and spirit of the Constitution, and to the just rights of the American people. The power to pass "any law impairing the obligation of contracts," is by the Constitution denied "to the States"—and yet in the passage of the act establishing an uniform system of bankruptcy, the existing contracts between the individual declared a bankrupt and his creditors, are virtually annulled. By the provisions of this act, those remedial State laws in force at the time such contracts were entered into, are declared by a recent judicial decision to be wholly ineffectual for the benefit of a creditor. It is the retro-active operation of this statute which renders it so objectionable "to the common sense and common honesty" of our people, and which places it in so direct opposition to the Constitution of the United States. This free government can only be sustained by the moral force of public sentiment—and as it is our privilege, so it is our bounden duty to speak of its measures according to our convictions. In this mode popular opinion may be ascertained, and when known, it will not fail to influence the action of those charged with the administration of our public affairs.

If the views I have expressed, touching the distribution and bankrupt acts, should be approved by the Legislature, what remains for us to do but to instruct those who represent this State in the councils of our nation, to use their best endeavors to effect an immediate repeal of these measures so dangerous to the independence and union of the States—so prejudicial to the rights of the people.

It must be a matter of high gratification to the people of this State, that their Representatives in both Houses of Congress have been faithful to the Constitution, to the principles of our free government, and to the rights and interests of their constituents.

There has been of late, in one of the States of the Union, a controversy of a most extraordinary character—a controversy involving the grave question of the right of the people to self-government—a right well protected “by universal suffrage and equal legislation.” No question of so serious importance, has for many years occupied the attention of the American people, as that now agitated in the State of Rhode Island. Governed by a charter, granted at a time when popular rights were not acknowledged to exist—possessing a small territory and scanty population—the people of that State have, until the present time, delayed taking that step, which the other States of the Union deemed of paramount importance, that of adopting a written Constitution, recognizing certain principles and clearly defining the powers of the various departments of the government. Why it is not as competent for the people of Rhode Island, at the present time to adopt a written Constitution, as it was for the people of New Hampshire in 1792, no friend of popular rights is able to understand. As an independent State of this Union, New Hampshire cannot fail to regard with deep solicitude every movement, come from whatever quarter it may, tending to abridge the sovereignty of the people—to bring their political influence within the control of exclusive pri-villeges. Living as we do under a Constitution, the deliberate choice of the people, and appreciating the blessings of political and individual independence which spring from it, our warmest sympathies must be excited for those who are struggling for the same advantages. This cause must in the end prevail, and our earnest prayer must be, that these great blessings may be attained at the smallest sacrifice of internal peace and private happiness.

A bill has passed the House of Representatives at the present session of Congress, making an apportionment of the representation of the country among the respective States. It is to be hoped that the provision in the bill directing that "the sovereign States of this Union shall district their own territory for the election of their own Representatives to Congress," will ultimately be rejected. Should, however, the provision be retained, and the bill become a law binding upon the States, it will devolve upon the Legislature, at its present session, to divide this State into five districts for the choice of Representatives to the next Congress, that being the number under the act, to which New Hampshire would be entitled.

The condition of our judiciary will demand the serious attention of the Legislature. This department of the government, as it is more intimately connected with the wants and business of the people than any other—controlling and regulating their most trivial as well as their most important rights—so it is one of the most responsible, and requires for the proper discharge of its duties, the most unceasing labor, and the most careful investigation. Pointing out the duties of each of us, as members of the community, which recognizes no supremacy but that of the laws, and preventing, so far as it is practicable, the commission of offences by a faithful administration of criminal justice, every citizen has an equal interest in the proper constitution and successful operation of this department. But unless the laws are expounded and administered by men whose integrity and learning recommend them to our confidence, we lose one of the most important objects of civilized society and constitutional government.

The situation of a Judge, honorable and responsible as it is, is not of itself a sufficient reward in a country like this, where very few are placed above the necessity of constant and laborious exertion. We cannot expect to retain upon the bench men of ability and skill, unless they are compensated somewhat in proportion to what that ability and skill would earn in other pursuits, requiring an equal amount of labor and responsibility. That such is not the case in this State, is acknowledged by all who have observed and reflected upon the course of business in our courts of justice. It will be seen, by a comparison of our Judiciary with that of the other States of the Union, that in no State has any court such extensive powers and comprehensive duties, as are vested in the Superior Court of New Hampshire. Every case cognizable in a court of justice, may be tried before one of the Judges of this Court, and very few cases of any importance are finally decided without being transferred for a decision upon questions of law. Since the passage of the act of 1832, the business in chancery has increased to a very great extent, and the late acts of the Legislature in relation to divorces, have added largely to the duties of the Court, by the necessity of carefully examining questions so momentous, and upon which the well being of society so greatly depends. The formation of new counties, and the consequent addition of numerous terms of the Common Pleas and the Superior Courts, have also increased both the labor and the expenses of the Judges, and thus require an annual absence of nearly six months upon the circuits, and constant occupation during the vacations.

This great increase of official duty, and the necessity of a much larger and more expensive library, seem to suggest the policy and the justice of making some further compensation to the Judges of our Superior Court. Taking into consideration the number of jury trials, our Judges are now required to hold, in addition to other duties, it has occurred to my mind that the object of adding to their compensation, if desired, may well and very properly be attained, by adopting in this State, to some extent, a principle now in successful operation in Pennsylvania and Virginia. In those States, in addition to fixed salaries, some of the Judges receive allowances to cover their travelling expenses. If allowances should be made in this manner to Judges of our Superior Court, sufficient to cover their actual expenses to and from and at courts for the trial of causes, to be drawn from the respective county treasuries, it would save the necessity for any further increase of their present salaries. This mode seems to be free from objections, and if adopted, it would impose upon the counties the expenses of the Judges for the jury terms, which would seem to be equitable.

It occurs to me, also, that it will be found necessary to add to the number of the Judges upon the bench of our Superior Court. I am well persuaded that five Judges will not be found more than adequate to meet the large and accumulating business of the State—to perform their responsible duties in the manner contemplated by the spirit of those impressive words of the Bill of Rights, which declare the citizen to be entitled to a "certain remedy, completely and without any denial, promptly and without any delay, conformably to the laws." Should it be thought that a Superior Court consisting of five Judges would be too unwieldy, I would suggest to the Legislature the propriety of changing our judicial system so as to limit the number of the Judges of our Superior Court, whenever a vacancy shall occur, to three, who should be required to perform all the law and equity business of the State, and one third part of all the jury trials—leaving the remaining two thirds of the jury terms to be held by two Judges of the Common Pleas—thus making such an organization of the business as would secure the prompt performance of all judicial duties.

I am not tenacious of any particular mode for the accomplishment of the object which I deem so important to the well being of our community. But I submit the whole matter to the sound discretion and good judgment of the Legislature, not doubting that such provisions will be added to our present judicial system as will secure the prompt administration of justice, by men in whose intelligence, learning and integrity, the people of New-Hampshire will repose confidence.

An experience of more than thirty years at the Bar has impressed me with the propriety of some amendments in the law, which I think it my duty to suggest to you. Among the most important of these, is one which recommends itself to that sense of equity and justice acknowledged by all. I allude to the fact, that when a party indicted by the Grand Jury is acquitted upon his trial, he has no remedy against the public for his costs. In a controversy between man and man, the successful party very properly recovers from his opponent the costs of prosecuting or defending his suit. If this be right, how much stronger is the claim of the defendant who contends, not with the single effort of one, but with the united strength of society, and prevails in the contest? The Bill of Rights declares that "all penalties should be proportioned to the nature of the offence." It is not consistent with the spirit of this avowal, that when there is no offence, the law should impose a penalty, severe in proportion to the inability of the party to pay it. The public have duties to perform towards individuals, and should be governed by the same equity and justice which regulate the duties of individuals to the public. The protection of the innocent, is one of the chief objects to be attained in civilized society. The innocent are not protected when the costs of proving their innocence may be ruinous to their pecuniary prospects in life. It sometimes happens that the worst passions which can find a place in the human breast, induce the finding of a Grand Jury, and the skill and power of discrimination of our ablest and most indefatigable public prosecutors, have not been sufficient to detect the influence of such passions and thereby to prevent the presentment of a citizen for an offence, which necessarily subjects him to a trial to establish his innocence. In such a case the accused ought to be indemnified for necessary costs.

The power to grant amendments upon such terms as may be equitable, in the course of the proceedings in a trial, of such errors and mistakes as cannot now be rectified by the court, seems to me to be one, the exercise of which could not but be attended with advantage to the public. This is, in its broadest sense, a power to do good—to relieve the merits of a case from such technicalities as stand in the way of justice—to ensure correctness in legal proceedings, by such penalties as may render it for the interest of all parties to exercise proper caution—and to expedite the trial of causes, by avoiding the necessity of driving a party out of court and forcing him to commence a new suit, by reason of an error which has no connection with the question at issue.

It is also matter worthy of careful inquiry whether a reform might not be effected by abolishing some of the forms of action, to which it is now necessary to resort, by blending two or more of them in one comprehensive form, or by permitting counts in different actions to be joined in one suit.

This subject has engaged the attention of some of the ablest jurists in England and America, and a reform in this particular has been considered by them one of the most substantial improvements, they could recommend. Mistakes in forms of action will occasionally be committed by the most careful and learned men, and a system which should avoid such mistakes, and yet require a reasonable certainty in the statement of the causes of action, would be of essential benefit to the public. My own experience has convinced me, that the statute allowing all actions to be reviewed and again tried, after a fair trial and a verdict by the jury, is an obstacle to the administration of justice. The operation of it is prejudicial to the parties, to witnesses and to the public. The first trial is too often regarded by each party as a trial of skill alone, in endeavoring to ascertain the strength or weakness of his opponent. Knowing that if vanquished he has another chance for victory, he sometimes at first suppresses testimony, that he may afterwards surprise his opponent, and be more certain of final success, or if of another character, he is lax in his preparations for trial, unacquainted with the points of his case, and disposed to postpone his labors until the final struggle, the result of which is to repay him for his want of industry at first. All persons, therefore, are insensibly operated upon by a calculation of chances, motives which, however largely they may enter into the springs of human actions, should be carefully guarded against in the administration of justice. The verdict of a jury should have a stability in itself, and a title to respect, not easily to be shaken or diminished—it should be the solemn conclusion to which twelve intelligent men have arrived, upon faithful investigation, and as such, as far as the facts are concerned, an end to litigation.

But the public soon lose all respect for legal investigation when results are so uncertain—witnesses are operated upon to procure a little more evidence from the reluctant, or a little less from the willing, and suits are thus protracted until even success is ruin. The power to grant new trials, when the merits of the case require it, might be vested in the Superior Court, to be exercised under proper limitation, looking to the entire indemnity of the party against whom the new trial proceeds, if he shall ultimately succeed.

I would also call the attention of the Legislature to some of the penal provisions of our laws. The right to take the life of a fellow-citizen for any crime—to destroy that which emanated from an authority above all human power, has been doubted by good and learned men. Certain it is, that such a degree of punishment defeats the very object of punishment. It takes away human life when its object is and should be human reform and amendment. Capital punishment is not in unison with that spirit of justice, humanity and christian feeling, which should ever characterize the acts of the legislator. I would, therefore, recommend the abolition of capital punishment, and the substitution of a penalty, which shall not destroy all hope in the offender, but which at the same time, shall be proportionate to the nature of the offence.

The interests of our militia I would commend to your favorable consideration. Congress is authorized “to provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia.” But upon the action of the State Legislature, depends whether this “arm of our defence” shall become efficient. I would especially recommend to the Legislature, a careful revision of this system. There are among you some who are filling offices in that corps, and who will be able to suggest from their own experience, any deficiencies which may exist in the details of our militia system. All such defects should be remedied without delay. No effort should be wanting on the part of the Representative body of the people to animate the zeal, and to inspire the confidence of those connected with our militia. This reserved force is essential for the maintenance of public order and for the security of the rights of freemen.

All the penal enactments, which might be passed by any Legislature, would prove wholly ineffectual in the preservation of public law and public liberty, without the existence of this strong and efficient physical force. I deem it essential, for the due preservation of our free government, that our militia should not only be encouraged by our Legislature, but sustained by the respect and confidence of our community. The moral influence of such a power is felt by the people.

It is to be hoped that in this peaceful and patriotic member of the confederacy, there will occur no such exigency in all future time, as would give authority to Congress for calling forth our militia. But let us be prepared for any event. “Standing armies are dangerous to our liberty,” but a well regulated militia is the natural, proper and sure defence of a State, and we have had too much experience in our past history now to question the patriotism of this corps. It is composed of freemen, the owners and cultivators of our own soil, men who want protection, and who are ready to give protection. It should be our united effort to add to its efficiency, by lessening the burden and giving encouragement to those, who are called up to perform military duty.

From a communication received from the Warden of the State Prison, it would seem that this establishment is now in a prosperous condition. "The convicts have been, usually, healthy during the past twelve months. No deaths, and no cases of sickness sufficiently severe to require the removal of the patient to the Hospital, have occurred. There has been no insubordination, escape or attempt to escape." The annual report of the Warden, giving the detail of receipts and expenditures, will be laid before the Legislature early in the session.

In no State in this Union, are the means of education more universally diffused than in New-Hampshire. Every portion of our community participates in the privileges of our free schools. Our fathers were deeply impressed with the great benefits of knowledge and learning, in the preservation of a free government, and hence the duty was enjoined upon the Legislature in all future periods, to cherish the interests of literature and the sciences. This solemn injunction, which has come down to us from those venerated patriots who framed our constitution, has produced in our land the most happy and gratifying results.

Our free school system is a beautiful illustration of the democratic character of our free government. Without any of those adventitious distinctions and preferences which sometimes occur in society, our scholars in those primary seminaries meet on terms of strict equality, and mingle together for instruction. No invidious distinctions can there arise, no preferences can there be given, except to those meriting commendations for extraordinary industry and attainments. In those primary institutions are imparted to the youth of our State, that love of civil and religious liberty, that high devotion to human rights, which led to the unflinching exertion of their energies and of their efforts, for the preservation of our free institutions, and so long as the means of education shall be enjoyed as they now are; so long as intelligence and all the social virtues shall be diffused through the State by the influence of our schools and seminaries of learning, we can have no fear for the perpetuity of our government.

During the recess of our Legislature, the Hon. Franklin Pierce having resigned his office of United States Senator, my predecessor made a temporary appointment to fill the vacancy thus occasioned. It will devolve upon the Legislature at its present session, to make an election permanently to supply the vacancy in the United States Senate, occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Pierce ; and as the term of our late Senator would have terminated on the third day of March next, the duty will also devolve upon the present Legislature, to elect a Senator to represent this State in the Senate of the United States for a period of six years, commencing with the fourth of March, 1843.

In conformity to the resolve approved June 20, 1840, authorizing the Executive to appoint three suitable persons to "revise, codify and amend the Statute Laws of New-Hampshire, and report to the Legislature at some subsequent session," the Hon. Joel Parker, Samuel D. Bell and Charles J. Fox, Esquires, were appointed to perform that trust. It is understood that during the present session they will be prepared to submit their report. From the character of those charged with the execution of this responsible and laborious duty, there can be no doubt that the work will be satisfactorily performed, and will fully justify the expense which will have accrued. I will transmit to the Legislature the report of this committee as soon as I shall have received it, with such recommendations and suggestions as the importance of the subject, and the true interest of the State may in my judgment require.

Under the act passed in June, 1839, "to provide for the Geological and Mineralogical survey of the State," a Geologist of science and learning was appointed, who with such assistants as were necessary, commenced the execution of the trust confided to him. His first report was laid before the Legislature at its last session, and since that report was published, he has been prosecuting this important work with all the skill, discrimination and research for which he is so justly distinguished. Although I am unable to communicate to the Legislature the present condition of this survey, yet I learn that within the last year, some further important discoveries have been made in the mineral resources of our State. I am informed that the final report of the State Geologist will be ready "by the end of the present year." Whatever appropriation may be necessary to aid him in the prosecution of his responsible and laborious duties, I trust, will be granted.

In the course of your present session, application will probably be made to the Legislature for a renewal of those Bank Charters, which are about to expire by their own limitation, and it may be considered necessary to make further provisions in relation to the general powers and duties of private corporations, with a view to the entire security and protection of the people, in the enjoyment of their rights of property. It is undoubtedly known to every member of this assembly, that, in an answer given by me to certain interrogatories, submitted by a respectable portion of my fellow-citizens, I have already explicitly promulgated to the public my opinions upon these subjects. Although these opinions remain unchanged, although subsequent reflection has confirmed me in their correctness, yet in making this official communication I feel it to be my duty, inasmuch as the question of renewing some, and of amending other charters of private corporations in this State, may engage the consideration of the Legislature—further, to express my views upon a subject of such vital importance to the future liberty, interest and happiness of our people.

A disposition to multiply private corporations is one of the great evils in the legislation of the most of the States. The history of the past should admonish us of our duty. For the mere purpose of private speculation and for avoiding all personal responsibility, many of these acts of special legislation have been sought for, and too readily obtained. Could those patriotic statesmen who have gone before us, have foreseen the disastrous and demoralizing effects of creating these irresponsible bodies, they would have never lent their aid in the accomplishment of so inglorious a work, and as the friends of social order, of sound morals and of equal justice, we should, guided by the lights of experience, avoid as far as practicable, this system which has proved so debasing to the character of our community, so ruinous to the hopes and so destructive to the interests of our confiding population. I would not indiscriminately oppose every private charter; corporations of this description have been, and may be established to promote the well being of society. But they have been too frequently granted with a view to the exclusive interest of the corporators, not regarding the rights or the interests of the people. The business operations of our community may be prosecuted with much more security to the people, and with equal convenience and safety to those concerned, without, as with, the shield of such a monopoly. The exclusive privileges usually conferred by acts of incorporation make them obnoxious to the honest hearted yeomanry of the country, and they should therefore be withheld except in cases of public necessity. If the unhallowed influence of this system shall continue unrestrained and unabated, the rights of individual property, and the honest enjoyment of individual liberty will exist only in name.

The object of the Legislature should be to give protection to the interests of the people, and maintain with unyielding pertinacity their just privileges.

This is the great practical reform now demanded, and this reform is what we should be solicitous to see accomplished. It would not be a difficult work, if we are ready to apply to private corporations those principles, which necessarily govern the transactions of individuals. The stockholders of all private business corporations should be made liable for the debts and liabilities of their respective corporations. There is no good reason against this principle. In the transactions which occur between man and man, there exists a direct responsibility—and when capital is concentrated, which looks to enlarged and extensive operations, beyond the means of single individuals, this liability is continued.

It is the life spring of the concern—it inspires confidence and commands support, and it is difficult to conceive of any sufficient reason why this principle, applicable to partnerships created by voluntary association, should not extend to partnerships created by law—why individuals acting unitedly for their own interest should be made liable for their doings as natural persons, from which they should be exempted under a charter of incorporation.

This want of responsibility has been a fruitful source of the embarrassment and distress, which has pervaded and is now pervading our land. The banking corporations in this State, are unquestionably private in their character and in their purposes. Their capital is private, and their gains are all private. Created as they have been for private benefit, their stockholders, like private individuals, should be liable for the debts they contract. They only can know the exact state of their concerns. When successful, they alone share the gains, and when overtaken by reverses, there can be no justice in visiting their misfortunes upon their confiding creditors. This doctrine of the personal liability of stockholders in private corporations is founded upon the principles of immutable right. It is no new doctrine. It is the doctrine of the common law of England. It is the general principle upon which private corporations are now established in that country. The joint stock banks of Great Britain are based on this great principle. These companies are banks of issue, they emit much of the paper circulation of the country, and the redeeming feature in all these legal partnerships is, that the partners are liable, individually, to the full amount of their property, for the debts of their respective companies; and as an additional security to the public, the names of all the stockholders are registered in the public archives, that the creditors of such institutions may know to whom they shall look for the payment of their liabilities. The beneficial consequences of such a provision, would be to induce that vigilance and supervision indispensably necessary to the success of the institutions, as well as to the safety of the public.

In one of the States of this Union there are but three incorporated banks. The charter of one imposes the unlimited liability of the stockholders for the debts of the corporation, while the charters of the other two are in that respect similar to the bank charters of New England. In 1837, the latter suspended specie payment, and after renewing for a short time, again suspended in 1839, and are now in a state of suspension, while the former has never suspended specie payment at all.

A principle which has worked so well elsewhere, should not be regarded as of a dangerous tendency if adopted in this State. It is true, and the fact is highly creditable to the banking corporations in New Hampshire, that with few exceptions, the people have suffered no loss through their agency—that the concerns of these institutions have been generally so well managed, as to have secured the confidence of our community. But these considerations ought not to deter us from the establishment of a principle important to the protection and well being of society—a principle which would secure the confidence of the public, and thus advance the true interest of the corporators.

But the operations of some of the banking institutions of the country, within a few years past, have been most disastrous to the interests, and most debasing to the moral sense of the community, and cannot fail to induce this patriotic assembly to do all in their power, to secure, hereafter, our common country from such disgrace, and the people from such sacrifice. It cannot be necessary for me, after having so fully expressed my views in relation to these private corporations, and the obligations which ought to rest upon the corporators, to recommend to the Legislature any particular banking system. The details of such a system are within your province, and should this Legislature, at its present session, see fit to renew the bank charters about expiring, or to establish other institutions in their stead, it is to be hoped the present system will be so improved, that such a responsibility will be imposed upon the stockholders, and such a restraint upon officers connected with these institutions, as shall effectually protect the public from all pecuniary loss.

In addition to the mere question of policy touching the renewal of the bank charters about to expire, and of introducing further provisions to afford indemnity to the people, another, graver and more important question may engage your attention at the present session—a question involving the constitutional right of the Legislature to confer upon a private corporation the power to take individual property, and appropriate it to its own use and benefit, without the owner's consent. If such a power exists, it must be conferred upon the Legislature by the direct provisions of our Constitution—no such power can properly be implied. In the language of that instrument, "every member of the community has a right to be protected in the enjoyment of life, liberty and property." "The right of acquiring property is a natural and inherent right." "When men enter into a state of society, they surrender up some of their natural rights to that society, in order to ensure the protection of others." "No part of a man's property shall be taken from him, or applied to public uses, without his own consent or that of the representative body of the people." These are among the fundamental principles of our State constitution, and are the only provisions in reference to this subject. When taken in connection, they establish the doctrine that every man shall be protected in the acquisition and possession of property. His right of control cannot be invaded, except when the public use shall require. Then, and then only, he may be compelled to surrender such parts as may be necessary for such use. Highways, wrought at the public expense, kept in repair at the public charge, and for which the public are liable for injuries sustained through their insufficiency, comprehend that description of ways dedicated exclusively to the public use, demanded by public necessity—and which every individual who enters into and becomes a member of a political community, is bound to aid in constructing. The existence of such ways is essential to the security and well-being of society. They are the work of public corporations, and are wholly distinguishable in their character, uses and purposes, from ways wrought by individuals or by private corporations. These are constructed with private means, and for private benefit, and do not afford such a public use as is contemplated in the constitution. Of this description are the railroads which have been constructed in this State. They are the work of private corporations, and are wrought for the interest of the corporators. The public are shut out from a participation in their government and direction. Upon such a corporation power cannot be conferred to take individual property for its use, without the owner's consent. The Legislature could not confer upon a single individual for a private purpose, the right to take the property of another for his use, without the assent of its owner, nor could this power be conferred upon a voluntary association of individuals. On what better principle could it be conferred upon individuals, united under a charter of incorporation, for the accomplishment of the same purpose? The powers which are granted by the Legislature to a private corporation, are in truth conferred upon the individual corporators by the name of the corporation. The same specific powers, described in their charters, would not be granted to the corporators as natural persons. Such grants would be regarded as transcending the constitutional right of the Legislature. When conferred upon the corporators by the name of their corporation, can the power of the Legislature be any less confined within the limits of the Constitution? It would seem that if a grant of the specific power in the one case would be unwarranted, so would it be in the other.

The authority to establish private corporations, cannot give to the representative body of the people any new powers over the private rights of individuals. If the right exists to appropriate private property, according to the mere will and pleasure of the Legislature for the time being, it can by no means be necessary, for a constitutional exercise of the right, that there should be created by law a private corporation upon which to confer the power. No consideration of public expediency, or public policy, should swerve the representative body of the people from the plain straightforward road of constitutional duty. The plea of public use, or public benefit, is always urged upon the Legislature as a reason for the establishment of these private corporations.

There is no difference in principle whether this power shall be conferred upon a manufacturing or a railroad corporation. They will each to some extent advance the public convenience. If the Legislature, upon the ground of public use, can constitutionally confer upon private corporations the power to take for their benefit the property of individuals, without their consent, there is no principle in the way of giving the same power to all private corporations.

The principle that individual property shall not be taken except for public use is in a republic the surest guaranty of individual independence. It is in the truest sense of the word conservative, and not anarchical. Without this principle every citizen would hold his dearest rights at the shifting will and temporary caprice of Legislative assemblies. The protection of individual rights against the excitements of party and the fancied interests of those who for the time may be in power, and the determination of those rights by reference to established principles, are privileges without which a republic is but a name. It is the conviction that our rights cannot be invaded, nor our property taken from us but by the necessity that the public good should predominate over private convenience, that makes each citizen lay down his head in peace at night, trusting to the supremacy of the law alone for his protection.

The tendency of our legislation is to disregard individual rights—and unless they are sacredly preserved, we deprive the citizen of that confidence and self reliance which should characterize the freeman, and we lose one of the most substantial distinctions between a free and despotic government. Nor can the effect of this doctrine be to drive capital from our State. It would rather tend to invite investments, than to discourage them. But should the views which I have put forth in this official communication, in effect, drive capital from New Hampshire, for the reason that private corporations cannot here be established without the responsibility of the corporators, and without protection to the rights of property, it would be better to submit to that privation, than to be made to endure the greater evils resulting from the unnecessary sacrifice of individual rights.

I cannot perceive that the interests of the manufacturing classes of our community could be unfavorably affected, by imposing further restrictions upon private corporations. In England, all branches of manufacture are more extensively pursued, larger capitals invested, and a greater number of operatives employed in the same branches of business, than in this country. In a single year, the value of her cotton, woolen, linen and iron manufactures, exceeded three hundred millions of dollars, and this immense business was carried on by private individuals and by private capital, without the aid of a single corporation.

In one of the States of this Union, the manufactures of cotton and wool, the iron and coal business, are prosecuted by individual enterprise, unaided by acts of incorporation.

The same description of business may be as well done in the same manner here as elsewhere. I am not, however, for destroying, but for so far improving the charters of private corporations, that whatever may hereafter be done, should be done with a view to the security and to the protection of the public. This is the great object I have in view. This is the reform demanded by every consideration which can enter into the mind of the patriot.

This is what the moral sense of the community requires; what the just and equal rights of the people demand.

It is to be hoped that there will be no occasion for a protracted session of the Legislature at this time.

There is more danger to be apprehended from too much than too little legislation.

But coming as you do, direct from the people, you cannot fail to be conversant with their wants, and all your energies, I trust, will be exerted to carry out their will.

Whatever may occur to me as necessary hereafter to communicate in aid of the performance of your public trusts, shall be laid before you by special message.

I shall be ready to co-operate with you in the adoption of all such measures, and in the passage of all such constitutional acts, as shall be promotive of the general interests.

While in public life, it has ever been and will ever continue to be my effort, first to learn, and then to do, the will of my constituents.

HENRY HUBBARD.

Council Chamber, June 2d, 1842.

It seems to my mind, considering the great importance of the subject, that the report or such parts of it as may be necessary may be printed with as little delay as practicable, and I would recommend that the printing be conducted under the supervision of the Commissioners themselves.

HENRY HUBBARD.

Council Chamber, June 2, 1842.”

RULES FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE HOUSE.

OF THE DUTY OF THE SPEAKER.

1. The Speaker shall take the Chair precisely at the hour to which the House shall have adjourned, shall immediately call the members to order, and at the commencement of each day's session, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read.

2. He shall preserve decorum and order; may speak on points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose, and shall decide questions of order subject to an appeal to the House by any two members. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to wit: "As many as are of opinion that (as the case may be,) say Aye;" and after the affirmative vote is expressed, "As many as are of a contrary opinion, say No." If the Speaker doubts, or a division be called for, the House shall divide; those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats, and stand till they be counted, and afterwards those in the negative shall rise and stand till they be counted. The Speaker shall then rise and state the decision of the House.

3. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.

4. All committees shall be appointed by the Speaker, unless otherwise directed by the House.

5. The Speaker shall designate to which of the standing committees all memorials, petitions, accounts, or other matters shall be referred, unless otherwise ordered by the House.

6. The Speaker shall vote in no case, unless the House be equally divided, or unless his vote, if given to the minority, will make the division equal; and in case of such equal division, the question shall be lost.

7. All acts, addresses, and joint resolutions shall be signed by the Speaker; and all writs, warrants or subpoenas, issued by order of the House, shall be under his hand and seal, attested by the Clerk.

8. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the galleries, the Speaker or Chairman of the committee of the whole House, shall have the power to order the same to be cleared.

9. No person but the members and officers of the House, members of the Council, and members of the Senate, the Secretary of State, Treasurer, and Clerks of the Senate, shall be admitted within the door of the Representatives' chamber, unless by invitation of the Speaker, or of some member of the House with the consent of the Speaker, except in public hearings, the parties, their counsel, and witnesses.

10. The Speaker shall have power to substitute any member to perform the duties of the chair, such substitution not to extend beyond an adjournment.

OF DECORUM AND DEBATE.

11. When any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the House, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to Mr. Speaker.

12. If any member transgress the rules of the House, the Speaker shall, or any other member may call him to order; in which case the member so called to order, shall immediately sit down; and the question of order shall then be distinctly stated from the chair; after which the member so called to order, may explain, and the question shall be open to debate, as in other cases, and be decided by the Speaker, whose decision shall be submitted to, unless an appeal be made to the House by a member, in which case, the only question shall be, "Is the Speaker's decision correct?"—which shall be decided without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member so called to order, he may proceed ; if otherwise, and the case shall require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the House.

13. In all cases, the member first rising shall speak first. When two members rise at the same time, the Speaker shall name the person to speak.

14. No member shall speak more than twice to the same question, without leave of the House, nor more than once until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken ; and if a question be lost by adjournment of the House, and revived on the succeeding day, no member who shall have spoken thereon twice, on the preceding day, shall be permitted again to speak on it without leave.

15. While the Speaker is putting any question, or addressing the House, no one shall walk out of, or across the House ; nor in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall entertain private discourse, nor whilst a member is speaking, shall pass between him and the Chair, nor shall any member leave his seat while the yeas and nays are calling.

16. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is directly interested ; or in any case where he was not present when the question was put.

17. Every member who shall be in the House, when a question is put, shall give his vote, unless the House, for special reasons, shall excuse him.

18. No motion shall be debated until the same shall be seconded and stated from the chair—and when a motion shall be made and seconded, it shall be reduced to writing, if desired by the Speaker, or any member, delivered in at the table, and read by the Speaker, before the same shall be debated.

19. No petition shall be received by the House, unless it be presented by a member thereof, and upon motion made for that purpose, nor until the substance of said petition be concisely minuted and the name of the member and town he represents recorded upon the back thereof : and it shall be the duty of the Speaker, whenever any motion relative to a petition is to be stated to the House, to state, in the first place, the substance of the petition, as minuted on the back thereof.

20. After a motion is stated by the Speaker, it shall be in possession of the House, but may be withdrawn at any time before a division or amendment.

21. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, but, 1st—to adjourn ; 2d, to lie on the table ; 3d, to postpone indefinitely ; 4th, to postpone to a day certain ; 5th, to commit ; and 6th, to amend ; which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged. Motions to adjourn, and lie on the table, shall be decided without debate.

22. When a question is postponed indefinitely, the same shall not be acted upon during the session.

23. Any member may call for the division of a question, when the sense will admit of it.

24. A motion for commitment, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment of the main question—and all motions and reports may be committed at the pleasure of the House.

25. No new motion shall be admitted under color of amendment, as a substitute for the motion under debate.

26. No vote shall be reconsidered, unless the motion for reconsideration be made by a member who voted with the majority, nor unless notice of such motion be given on the same day on which the vote passed, or on the next day between the hours of ten and twelve o'clock.

27. When the reading of a paper is called for and objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the House.

28. Any member may excuse himself from serving on any committee at the time of his appointment, if he is then a member of two other committees, who have not reported. No member shall nominate more than one person for the same committee, provided the person nominated shall be chosen—nor shall any person, after having been himself appointed, nominate one for the same committee.

29. Each member shall seasonably and punctually attend his duty in the House ; and no one shall absent himself from the service of the House, unless he have leave, or be sick and unable to attend.

30. When the House adjourns, each member shall rise and keep his place until the Speaker leaves the chair.

Mr. Bordman introduced sundry resolutions which were read and are as follows:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That the true object of all government is the protection and security of individuals in their lawful pursuits: the inherent rights of all are the same; favors should not therefore be bestowed upon individuals or classes which are not equally open to all; all laws therefore which have for their object the accumulation of wealth in great masses, or which serve to promote private pecuniary interests alone, are contrary to the genius and spirit of a democratic government, and ought never to be enacted.

2. Whatever advantages other governments may derive from a great national debt, a democracy has no favors to expect from this quarter. The true theory of our government in this respect is to pay down and no trust. Its expenditures should therefore in time of peace, be limited to its ability of immediate and prompt payment.

3. As government is established for the benefit of the people and the whole people, and not for the private interests of those who may be entrusted with the administration of its affairs, an adequate compensation should be provided for their labors. But neither salaries or per diem allowances should be so great, as to make office desirable for the wealth it may bestow.

4. If the blessings of freedom are to be enjoyed and perpetuated, prudence and economy must mark our course both in the public and private walks of life. As extravagance of expenditure in the domestic circle is the precursor of ruin to the individual, so a careless regard for the public interests and prodigality in the expenditures of the government are the sure road to political death.

5. That the distribution of any of the revenue belonging to the general government, from whatever source that revenue may have been derived, is not authorized by the constitution; that its influence is highly prejudicial to a healthful state of public sentiment; that such distribution at the present time when our credit and character are severely suffering from want of ability to meet our pecuniary engagements, would be a foul blot upon our fair fame, which we have labored hard to earn and are still willing to labor hard to maintain, and that the bill passed at the extra session of Congress in 1841, authorizing the distribution of the proceeds of the sales of the public lands, meets our entire disapproval, and we can never consent to receive any portion thereof.

6. That it would be more in accordance with our views and feelings if Congress should devise some means for the payment of the public debt, for restoring our credit and maintaining our honor unsullied, than attempt to fill our pockets from an empty treasury.

7. That it is of the highest importance, that our public engagements should be held sacred; the breath of suspicion should not be allowed to fall upon them. A State would be authorized to refuse a fulfilment of its contracts, only in cases so palpable that the whole country shall respond a hearty amen to it. Such a case we do not think has yet occurred in this country.

8. That the history of the past political year of our country has served greatly to increase our confidence in the Independent Treasury; that its repeal has in our view been attended with disastrous consequences to the interests of the people, and our only safety lies in a speedy return to its principles.

9. That neither the constitution or sound policy authorize a duty for any other purpose than revenue. That individuals when left free to manage their business in their own way will take better care of it than the government can for them. That the cause of the present depressed state of our manufacturing interests is to be sought for in some other quarter than want of governmental patronage.

10. That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives be requested, to use their efforts to obtain a repeal of the distribution and bankrupt acts.

11. That the Secretary be directed to furnish each of our delegation in Congress with a copy of the foregoing resolutions.

On motion of Mr. Flanders—

REPORT,

That they have examined the books and accounts of the Prison and the vouchers for the several items of expenditure, and find them to conform to the exhibit of the financial condition of the Prison as contained in the Warden's report.

It will be seen, by reference to the report of the Warden, that the net receipts of the institution for the last year have been

And the expenditures have been

$6876 60
6656 46

Leaving an excess of income of 220 15

This account however does not include the salary of the Warden of the State Prison, which is paid out of the Treasury of the State.

By reference to the report, it will also be seen that there is a balance of cash in the hands of the Warden of $1049 87, which sum, together with the current receipts of the Prison, will be amply sufficient to carry on the institution, successfully, to the profit and advantage of the State. With the internal condition of the establishment the committee are much gratified, and they feel pleasure in stating, that to their knowledge, at no time since the establishment of the institution, has there been so much order, discipline, neatness and comfort as at the present time.

Early in the present session your committee heard complaints and rumors in regard to the severity of the discipline, and general charges against the internal police of the prison. Believing, that the unfortunate beings therein confined had a just claim upon the Legislature for protection, in case the charges were true, the committee asked of the House its authority to investigate the subject, and by its direction they have gone into as thorough an examination as time would admit, and it gives them pleasure to state that in their opinion the charges are not of such a nature as to attach blame to the officers of the institution. Some of them were entirely unfounded, and others related to cases where punishment was indispensable to the good government of the institution.

After carefully comparing the testimony of the witnesses had before them, the committee adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this committee the charges brought against the Warden of the State Prison are unsustained by the evidence.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this committee, that discipline is necessary in the Prison, and that from the evidence before this committee the discipline is better at the present time than it has been for many years previous.

Resolved, That the committee recommend to the Warden to maintain the discipline of the Prison, but that he inflict no severer punishment than is absolutely necessary for that purpose.

All which is respectfully submitted, a direct violation of the provisions of the federal compact, and we cannot regard the same as binding upon the States.

THOMAS B. LAUGHTON,

Your committee have included in the foregoing list of names, the members from the towns of Exeter, Antrim and Orford, although the town clerks of said towns have not certified in their respective certificates a list of the votes on the day of election.

They have also included in said list, the names of the members from the towns of Pembroke and Hooksett, although no list of the rateable polls was returned at the time of the annual election by the selectmen, as appears by the certificate of the town clerk.

They have also included in said list, the names of the members returned from the towns of Columbia, Benton, Franconia, Orange, South Hampton, Middleton, Litchfield, Sharon, Sullivan and Langdon, although the certificates of the selectmen of said towns do not show, that said towns have the requisite or constitutional number of rateable polls, to entitle them to the representation they have respectively returned to this House.

From the facts, that no objections have been offered to the right which the members from the above named towns had to hold their seats in this House, and from the fact, that they have heretofore been represented, and from various other circumstances, your committee are inclined to the belief, that the aforesaid towns do in fact each contain the constitutional number of rateable polls, to entitle them to the number of representatives returned—or that they have been authorized so to do by special acts of the Legislature—which the town clerks have neglected to note in their certificate of the election of members of this House.

The committee have also included the name of the member from Society Land and Windsor, although the number of votes cast for each person voted for is not given, but merely declared that the person returned as a member, has a majority of all the votes cast.

The committee have also included the name of the member from Canaan, although it does not appear by the clerk's certificate that the check list used on the day of election had been posted up at any place.

The committee have also included the names of the members returned from the towns of Mason, Hudson, Charlestown, Lyme, Grafton and Campton, although there were returned in the certificate of the town clerks of said towns, certifying the election of the aforesaid members, scattering votes, without giving the names of the persons for whom said votes were cast.

Your committee, notwithstanding the errors above mentioned, and from the fact that no objection has been offered against any member, with only a single exception, and in that case the committee have considered the House to have decided, are of an opinion that the aforesaid members are entitled to their seats in this House.

Which report was, on motion, accepted.

On the question,

Shall the foregoing resolution, reported by said committee, be adopted?

It was decided in the affirmative.

So the resolution was adopted.

"A resolution, appropriating three thousand dollars to continue the Geological and Mineralogical survey of the State."

On motion of Mr. Bordman of Gilford—

The House resumed the consideration of the resolutions, introduced by Mr. Tuck, relative to Railroad corporations.

Mr. Bordman of Gilford offered two several amendments to said resolutions.

Resolved, That the Constitution of the United States gives to the Legislature of each State the right to prescribe the times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives in the Congress of the United States.

Resolved, That so long as the States continue to exercise this power, so as to secure a representation in Congress, the National Legislature do not possess the right to interfere with and control such regulations.

Resolved, That when the Legislature of any State shall fail to adopt such regulations, then, and then only, Congress may do it.

Resolved, That the Constitution of the United States does not confer upon Congress the right to control the legislation of the States, and prescribe to the legislatures what course they shall pursue.

Resolved, That whenever a case shall occur, which shall warrant any action on the part of the General Government, relative to the elections, the times, places and manner of holding the elections must be prescribed by Congress directly, and not through the State Government.

Resolved, That the recent act of Congress, directing the States to be districted for the choice of Representatives to Congress, is a direct violation of the provisions of the federal compact, and we cannot regard the same as binding upon the States.

Resolved, That we cannot sanction so unauthorized an interference in our domestic relations on the part of Congress, and shall therefore decline to district this State for the choice of Representatives to Congress.

APPENDIX.

REPORT

OF THE STATE GEOLOGIST.

His Excellency Henry Hubbard,
Governor of New Hampshire.

Sir—I have the honor of presenting to your Excellency a brief report on the present condition of the Geological survey of the State of New Hampshire, with a few suggestions respecting my future operations in the completion of the work with which I am charged.

I beg leave to refer you to my first annual report for the details of the work performed during the first year, remarking only, that a large amount of matter, which was prepared for that communication, was necessarily omitted in its publication, and is reserved for the final report, which will be drawn up at the close of the present year, when the survey will be completed, in accordance with the resolves of the Legislature, by which the work was authorized.

The matter which has been reserved, as above stated, relates chiefly to agriculture, and the economical management of metalliferous ores.

During the present year a considerable amount of valuable information has been collected; sufficient to form a large annual report: but having been advised by His Excellency the Governor with the general consent of the Honorable Council, that it would not be necessary to prepare this matter for the press before the close of the survey; I have reserved it for the final and complete report.

Although the resolves authorizing the survey and the instructions conveyed therein to the State Geologist do not contemplate any examination of the soils, marls, peat and swamp muck, or the analysis of the various solid and fluid parts of plants, I have found that many people in the State felt that I could render them a valuable service, by examining into those matters; and I have most cheerfully done all that has been in my power to gratify their rational curiosity and desire for improvement. This most important department of agriculture has been carefully attended to by me during the survey; and the information which I have obtained has been, not only highly gratifying to me, but will also prove valuable to the community. You may therefore expect that about one third part of my final report will be devoted to agricultural researches.

Having several years since made a Geological and Mineralogical examination of a portion of the Province of Nova Scotia, and a partial examination of New Brunswick and more recently a Geological survey of the States of Maine and Rhode Island, I had the satisfaction of discovering a general law respecting the elevation of the strata of New England, which required for its confirmation a section across the State of Vermont. I therefore made a hasty sketch of the strata in a line across the centre of that State and found, that what I had foreseen by previous explorations on the eastern side of New Hampshire was fully proved by the coincidence of the phenomena on the west. Thus we discovered that the great mass of primary rocks occupying the western part of Maine and a large portion of New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, has been elevated through and between the strata now constituting the rocky foundations of Maine and Vermont, and that New Hampshire is, in reality, the key stone of this great arch, or is the centre of elevation. In addition to this great centre of upheaval there are others of a subordinate character which are only local in their effects, the anticlinal strata having been elevated only for a limited area. You will at once perceive, on examining this subject, that the result to which I have thus arrived, is not only curious, but is of importance in a practical light. You will observe that we cannot expect the coal formation should occur within the limits either of New Hampshire, Vermont or in the State of Maine west of the Penobscot River, and that the nearest coal strata occur, on the eastward, in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, and on the west, in Pennsylvania and Kentucky.* This fact will forever put an end to the fruitless explorations for coal within the limits which I have referred to, as more ancient than the coal formation. On the other hand I would observe that the older strata, with which we have to deal in this State and its borders, are eminently metalliferous, and have been proved to contain many valuable ores, which under favorable circumstances may be advantageously wrought.

Iron, the right arm of national industry and power, abounds in New Hampshire. Lead occurs in considerable abundance, and zinc, in very large and important veins, amply sufficient for the supply of the New England States. The veins of Copper, noticed in my former report, have, as I anticipated, proved richer and more solid as they were explored to greater depths, and we may now rank one at least of those veins as of economical value. This vein is in the town of Warren, and is now undergoing exploration with a view to work the mine on a large scale. Rich specimens of the ore just obtained have been sent to me, and are now in the State Cabinet.

Liberal offers have been made by practical iron founders to establish iron furnaces in the town of Jackson; and it is hoped that we may soon see them in active operation.

The zinc and lead mines of Eaton are also considered workable.

The lead ore of Shelburne has been found to be easy to smelt; and the lead is sufficiently rich in silver to pay a profit on the expense attending its extraction.

The zinc ores of Shelburne and Warren are both easily wrought, and furnish as high a percentage of pure zinc, as those wrought in England. I have actually reduced by the ordinary processes specimens of the metals from most of the ores which I have here mentioned, and they are now deposited in the State Cabinet.

Year before last I discovered a vein of oxide of tin in the town of Jackson, but the ore consisting of a vein stone full of crystals of the oxide of tin without any solid tin, stone or compact oxide, I felt a little hesitation in speaking of its probable value. The ore yielded from 30 to 50 per cent of tin and would prove valuable if it could be obtained in adequate quantities.

During the past year two new veins of the compact and pure tin ore have been discovered near the first described vein, and the probability now increased is that the mine will prove workable for metallic tin.

I have analyzed the specimens which I obtained at the mine, and others, which have been sent me by the proprietor, and find that the purest specimens yield 73 per cent of fine tin; while the average of a lot taken in mass, with the vein stone adhering yielded 54 per cent. I have deposited in the State Cabinet an ingot of pure tin, weighing 3 ounces, which was extracted by the usual processes, from 5 ounces of the crude ores from the new vein in Jackson. One hundred weight of the ore will yield, at this rate, from 12 to 16 dollars worth of the metal.

A very valuable ore of Titanium has also been discovered in the towns of Unity and Merrimack, and if it proves abundant it will be of importance to the individuals on whose estates it has been found. That occurring in Unity contains a minute proportion of tin, which is an indication of the probable occurrence of that metal in the vein. The ore found in Merrimack is worth $16 a pound, wholesale, and a considerable quantity is employed by dentists in the manufacture of mineral teeth, and by the porcelain painter. Owing to its absolute purity, the New Hampshire Titanium will be preferred to any yet found in this country. It should be remarked that no one but a mineralogist would be likely to notice such unprepossessing ores as those of tin and titanium and their occurrence has, heretofore been overlooked.

A bed of limestone has been discovered in the town of Amherst, and associated with it occur several curious and interesting minerals which will be visited by many mineralogists. The limestone is mixed with some crystalline minerals so as to render it rather poor for mortar but it will serve a useful purpose for agriculture.

The great bed of limestone in Haverhill is now wrought on a large scale, and the lime proves to be of excellent quality. It is sent to various parts of the State, and a steady demand for it continues.

Quarries of mica are profitably wrought in two or three towns in New Hampshire. That in Grafton has furnished the largest supply, and yields more than $1500 per annum as the proceeds of sales.

The Alstead quarry is also wrought, yielding an income of from $800 to $1000 per annum to the proprietor.

Plumbago is wrought to some extent in the towns of Hillsborough and Goshen, furnishing profitable occupation during a part of the year to a number of industrious men.

Good oil stones, scythe stones, &c., are also obtained very abundantly in this State, and the labor of quarrying and preparing them for market employs a number of persons during a part of the year.

Granular Quartz is a very abundant rock in New Hampshire, and furnishes not only a large supply to the sand-paper makers of Vermont, but is also used in the manufacture of the excellent glass made in the town of Keene. At my suggestion, chemical glass ware has been made at that establishment equal in value to the best Bohemian glass for chemical use.

By introducing improvements in the manufacture of iron, the Franconia furnace will be able to furnish a much larger supply of excellent iron. This has lately been effected.

Having now alluded briefly to a few points of interest, I would remark that in drawing my labors to a close, I shall have prepared a geological map of the State, with coloured sections, exhibiting the structure of the rocky masses in the State and the relief of the country. The State map is sufficiently correct to serve as a ground-plan for a general exhibition of the rocky basis, but it is, nevertheless, erroneous in many particulars, but the time allowed for the survey will not admit of the projection of a new map, which must be the result of an elaborate triangulation. In addition to the above mentioned drawings, I have some sketches of picturesque scenery of the mountainous regions in the State, which it will be desirable to publish in the final report, since the scenery of this State is peculiarly a part of its economical geology.

I propose also, to have drawn on stone, plans of the best kind of furnaces for smelting the metalliferous ores, and shall also present drawings of lime kilns, which may be exhibited by wood cuts.

The present summer, as heretofore, will be occupied by geological and mineralogical researches in the field, and the next winter will be spent in the laboratory, in making the requisite analyses of the minerals and soils which will have been collected. This work, as you well know, is arduous in the extreme, and requires the most constant attention.

I hope, nevertheless, to be able, while my analytical operations are going on, to draw up the final report on the survey; and if it is desirable, it may be presented in season for distribution at the session of the legislature in June 1843.

In order to effect this object, it will be necessary to provide for the printing of the report; and would respectfully suggest that some one should be authorized to make the necessary arrangements, contracts, &c., so that there may be no delay.

The map and drawings will require the skill of one of our best lithographers, and can be executed at a very reasonable rate. A quarto form will be preferable for the report, since it will best accommodate the map and plates. I trust that time will be allowed for the proper execution of this work, and this may be done by early arrangements with the printers and engravers who may be entrusted with its execution.

All that the author can do to make the report worthy of the State and creditable to himself will be done.

Most respectfully,

Your Excellency's

Obedient servant,

CHARLES T. JACKSON,

State Geologist.

It will be seen by the foregoing statement, that the income of the institution for the past year, has been sixty-eight hundred seventy-six 61-100 dollars, and the expenses amount to sixty-six hundred fifty-six 46-100 dollars, giving an excess of income over expenditure of two hundred twenty 15-100 dollars.

The cash receipts during this period have been $12,310 88, and expended $11,261 01, leaving on hand a balance of $1049 87.

Two thousand dollars of the appropriation of 1840 have not been wanted in the business operations, and still remain in the treasury. No money has been drawn from the treasury, excepting a balance of appropriation for repairs of $534 81, which has been economically and advantageously applied to that end.

The smiths and cabinet makers are now under contract at a stated price per day for each man's labor, and an estimate of expenses and receipts for the coming year, furnishes a result very flattering in a pecuniary point of view, to the institution. Provided no interruption of present business arrangements should take place, the N. H. State Prison will not again very soon be obliged to ask legislative aid for its support. The health of the inmates has been excellent—as will be seen by the Physician's report, no sickness of a sufficiently serious character to require the removal of the patient to the hospital. Rev. Mr. Worth's, the Chaplain, Report will inform you respecting their moral condition.

The discipline and general state of the establishment I would respectfully invite the Hon. Members to examine in person, and as frequently during the session as may be convenient.

Respectfully submitted,

LAWSON COOLIDGE, Warden.

May 1, 1842.

To the Honorable Directors of the N. H. State Prison, the Physician submits the following Report:

It gives us much pleasure to announce in the outset, that the official year which has recently closed, affords very little either of variety or interest to be embodied in the Physician's Report, at least so far as disease is concerned; for since the last annual Report, the inmates of the institution have been unusually and remarkably free from the "ills that flesh is heir to." It is true, the year has not been one of uninterrupted health, inasmuch as we have had more or less of such complaints as must always be incident to a climate like ours, particularly those of a catarrhal and rheumatic character. These, with more or less of bowel complaint in the hot season of the year, certain chronic diseases, and a few cases of erysipelas, constitute the catalogue of maladies, which we have to report at this time, all of which have readily yielded to appropriate medicine, diet and rest. Indeed we have not found it necessary to open what is called the Hospital for the reception of a single patient during the year. Not a death has occurred, nor have we had a solitary case of confirmed fever, running through the ordinary stages and duration of that complaint. This is certainly a remarkable circumstance, and speaks volumes in favor of regular hours, regular labor, and simplicity of diet, as preservatives of health. The fact is the more remarkable in this case, since the agency of means leading to such a result has by no means been tested on the most favorable class of subjects; for although a majority of penitentiary convicts are either young or middle aged, yet it must not be forgotten, that almost without exception, prior to confinement, they have been addicted to irregularities and excesses which tend directly and powerfully to impair the health.

In conclusion, we would beg leave to state the fact to the Board, that several persons are confined in this prison who are so unequivocally insane, as to be rendered more fit subjects for the moral training of a Lunatic Asylum than the penal discipline of a Penitentiary. One in particular is at this time confined to his cell, laboring under a severe paroxysm of the disease. Through the kindness and attention of the officers, he is rendered as comfortable as the circumstances of the case will admit, but cannot of course have the advantages of an institution expressly adapted to the wants of the insane.

E. CARTER.

June 1, 1842.

To His Excellency the Governor, and the Honorable Council, Directors of the New Hampshire State Prison:

GENTLEMEN—

During the past year, I have preached in the Chapel once on the Sabbath, and have occasionally visited the prisoners in their cells for the purpose of conversation and giving religious instruction. I have frequently distributed suitable Tracts among them, thus adding something to the variety of their moral and religious reading.

The attention to the instructions of the Sabbath has been uniformly of the most respectful and serious character; while the general aspect of the assembly has been such as would characterize deep solemnity and sincere worship. But few congregations are more attentive to the preached word, or listen to its truths with more apparent satisfaction. My intercourse with the inmates at their cells has been agreeable—scarcely an instance in which these visits have not been thankfully received. I have almost uniformly found the larger portion of the convicts engaged in reading, from which they appear to derive much satisfaction.—And it is to be hoped that the solemn lessons of the Sacred Volume will exert a practical influence, awaken them to a just sense of their sinfulness, and lead to sincere repentance and genuine reformation of life.

The penitentiary discipline wisely provides for the punishment for crime, but the system cannot be complete until it shall have furnished the necessary moral and religious instruction to induce the hope of an entire reformation of the transgressor. The discipline of this institution, as here maintained, is well calculated to bring down the stubborn spirit of the convicts, to teach them lessons of due submission to proper authorities, to correct their habits of idleness, and, for the time being, to chain the tiger that he may commit no farther depredations on the community. But this alone will not effect the object so much desired. Nothing short of the power of the Gospel can change the tiger to the lamb, and produce a thorough change of heart. And to accomplish a work so noble and philanthropic, there are many inducements to labor. The experience of the past, in this and kindred institutions—the interest manifested in the subject of Prison Discipline—the age, disposition, and manner of life of very many of the convicts—and the happiness and well-being of all, would seem to urge all interested to untiring effort to save the wanderer, and lead the bold transgressor to forsake the paths of sin and turn to the Lord, who “will have mercy upon him ; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.”

Respectfully submitted,

EDMUND WORTH, Chaplain.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE EASTERN RAILROAD IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the State of New Hampshire in General Court convened :

The Directors of the Eastern Railroad in New Hampshire, in conformity with the provisions of their act of incorporation, respectfully make their Annual Report.

Since their last annual report, they have purchased the land and buildings on the line of the road from the depot on Vaughan street in Portsmouth, to the Portsmouth Bridge, across Noble's Island. The road is now in progress of grading, preparatory to laying the rails; to the line of the State of Maine, for the purpose of connecting with the Portland, Saco and Portsmouth Railroad Co., which road extends from Portland to the line of the State of New Hampshire, where it connects with the Eastern Railroad in New Hampshire. The building of a depot is in progress at Little River Road in North Hampton. We are happy in being able to state, that no accident has occurred to either passengers, or the men connected with the Cars since the road was opened.

The running of the road being done by the Eastern Railroad Co. in Massachusetts, no expenditures on running account have been made by the company. They have expended for land and buildings the present year, about $10,000 dollars. The cost of grading, moving buildings, &c., is not yet fully liquidated, so that the amount cannot be now fully given. Under their lease to the Massachusetts road, they have received two dividends of three dollars each per share, the first in July and the second in January, making the receipts for the last year six dollars per share, amounting to twenty-one thousand dollars.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

To the Committee on Roads, Bridges and Canals :

GENTLEMEN:

The undersigned, President of the Eastern Railroad in New-Hampshire, not being able at this time to communicate to the Legislature a copy of the lease of said road to the Eastern Railroad Company in Massachusetts, begs leave to submit to you the following outline of the provisions of said lease.

The lease was entered into, I think, in 1840, between the two roads, in pursuance of the authority of acts of the Legislatures of New Hampshire and Massachusetts, and is to continue for a period of ninety-nine years from its date. The New Hampshire road are to receive the same per centage on the amount invested, as the Massachusetts road for dividend, and the whole earnings of both roads are to be annually divided, excepting that a surplus to meet contingencies, not exceeding thirty thousand dollars may be reserved. This surplus, according to the best of my recollection, does not now exceed ten thousand dollars. The whole of said surplus at the end of the lease is to be rateably divided between the two roads.

Respectfully, Gentlemen,

I am your ob't servant,

ICHABOD GOODWIN.

THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF BOSTON AND MAINE RAIL ROAD.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the State of New Hampshire:

The Directors of the Boston and Maine Railroad, hereby submit their third Annual Report of their acts and doings, receipts and expenditures, under their Act of Incorporation.

The total amount of capital paid in, up to Jan. 1, 1842,	305,202,00
Loans upon Bonds and Notes,	174,294,74
Total cost of the Road, to January 1, 1842,	471,331,32
Amount of Income, from July 1, 1841, to January 1, 1842, as per agreement with the Boston and Portland Railroad, the Boston and Maine Road having been open but a part of the time to Dover,	9,000,00

At the date of the second Annual Report, the Road was completed from the line of the State of Massachusetts, to Exeter, and was in use of the Boston and Portland Railroad Corporation, under a contract with this Corporation, for the transportation of passengers and merchandise. On the 28th July, it was opened, and the cars run to Newmarket, and on the 27th September to Dover.

At the last session of the Legislature, an act was passed, authorizing the union of the franchises of this Corporation, with that of the Boston and Portland Railroad in Massachusetts, connecting with this Road at the line of the State, at Plaistow, and also with the Dover and Winnipissiogee Railroad in this State, and the Maine, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts Railroad, a Corporation granted by the Legislature of the State of Maine.

Subsequently, the union was consummated by the respective Stockholders of the Boston and Portland, and Boston and Maine and Dover and Winnipissiogee Railroads, conditioned to go into effect on the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and forty two. They now form one Company, under the name of the Boston and Maine Railroad, agreeable to the acts of the Legislatures of the State of New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

The Road is now in process of construction from Dover to the line of the State of Maine, and expected to be ready for use during the present year—embracing a portion of the Road under the charter of the Dover and Winnipiseogee Railroad, the location of which was filed in June 1841, agreeable to the charter.

The union of the Massachusetts and New Hampshire Roads, having been consummated on the first of January last, the Massachusetts laws requiring the annual accounts to be made from January to January, the accounts of both roads have been concluded only up to the time of the Union. Hereafter, the cost and income of the Roads in their respective States will be stated and certified by Commissioners, to be appointed agreeable to the act of union.

THE FIRST REPORT

OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE CONCORD RAIL ROAD CORPORATION.

To the Honorable, the Legislature of the State of New-Hampshire :

Ever since the organization of the Board of Directors, on the 17th day of February, 1841, great exertions have been made for the speedy construction of the road from Nashua to Concord. To accomplish this object, particular attention has been paid to settlements with land owners for the right of way, procuring suitable room for depots and other buildings at Concord, and at other stations upon the road—preparing road-bed for superstructure, masonry, bridging, &c., getting in readiness materials for the superstructure, such as rails, lumber, &c., and in making the other necessary arrangements for putting the road into operation, such as the furnishing of engines, passenger and freight cars, and providing depot buildings.

The Directors from the commencement have spared no pains to obtain adjustments with all the land owners upon the line of the road for the right of way, and have so far succeeded in accomplishing this desirable object, as to leave but three persons with whom as yet they have been unable to settle.

The right of way has cost the corporation a larger amount than in the outset was anticipated. The original estimates must of course have been made too low, or the Directors in their zeal to make settlements on terms satisfactory to the land holders, have paid too much.

They believe, they have in all cases paid liberally, and in some instances undoubtedly, much above a fair valuation. They preferred, however, to err by paying too much rather than too little, for such lands as might be necessary for the construction of the road. Purchases have been made of a sufficiency of land in Concord, and at other stations upon the line of the road, for the conveniences of depots, both freight and passenger, engine houses, car houses, and other necessary buildings.

In procuring land for these objects, the Directors have in some instances been obliged to make greater purchases than was desirable, but trust that they have made none beyond what was necessary in order to best preserve the interests of the corporation.

The grading of the road, masonry, and bridges has been done chiefly by contract, and is now in a forward state, it being almost ready for superstructure the entire distance from Nashua to Manchester, and the residue from Manchester to Concord, being in a satisfactory state of forwardness.

The bridging and masonry has been completed, or nearly so, from Nashua to Manchester, with the exception of the bridge across the Merrimack River at Goff's Falls; the masonry of this bridge has been completed, and the completion of the bridge is in rapid progress.

The materials for the the superstructure were early contracted for, all of which have been received with as much promptness as was reasonable to anticipate.

The rails have all been received, with the exception of the cargo of "the brig Emma," of 400 tons, which was lost on the voyage. The cargo, however, was fully insured, and having a sufficiency of time to procure more, there will be no delay on this account.

The workmen have commenced at Nashua, the laying of the superstructure, and should there be no unforeseen delay in the completion of the Goff's Falls Bridge, the road will be opened to the public, as far as Manchester, by the 4th day of July next, and the Directors can see no good reason why the whole road from Nashua to Concord, will not be completed at as early a date as October next.

The necessary depots are now preparing; the engines have been contracted for, and the necessary cars, both passenger and freight, are in a forward state of construction.

The Directors have increased the capital stock of the corporation, by the creating of new shares, so that it now stands at $650 000, or 13000 shares, and the same have been disposed of in conformity with the act of incorporation.

There have been instalments to the amount of thirty-five dollars laid on each share, which would amount on the whole capital to $455,000. Some persons having paid for their shares in full, the Treasurer has received as follows, viz :

On instalments, and of such as have paid in full for their shares,	$466,128 72
From the United States Insurance Co., in part for loss per "Emma,	12,000 00
For interest,	93 59
	$478,222 31

The amount which has been expended is as follows, viz :

Grading,	69,416 40

SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE NASHUA AND LOWELL RAILROAD.

To the Honorable, the Legislature of the State of New-Hampshire.

The Directors of the Nashua and Lowell Railroad Corporation hereby submit their seventh annual report of their acts and doings, receipts and expenditures under their Acts of Incorporation, for the year ending April 30, 1842.

The Capital Stock of the Corporation paid in full, is $380,000,00

The amount expended in construction, or original cost of road, up to April 30, 1841, was $372,410,95

Since that date, the following sums have been paid:

For land and land damages,	$5,475,00
“ Superstructure,	40,37
“ Depots, fixtures, &c.	2,073,68
	7,589,05

Total cost of road up to April 30, 1842, $380,000,00

The whole amount of the Capital Stock is now expended, and no increase is to be anticipated, unless the increasing business of the road and the accommodation of the public may require a new and double track, or enlarged means of transportation.

The receipts and expenditures of the road for the year ending April 30, 1842, so far as accrued, are as follows:

1842. Expenses of Road.

April 30. Paid for repairs of Road and Depots,	4,064 45
“ “ “ “ Engines and Cars,	10,682,02

There is also a considerable sum of money due to the Corporation more than is due from the Corporation nominally about four thousand dollars, which has been accruing since the road went into operation. In this amount, however, is included sundry bad and doubtful debts, so that the amount which will eventually be realized from them, is quite uncertain.

From the profits of the road received, two dividends have been declared of four per cent. each, one payable Dec. 1, 1841, and the other June 1, 1842, of $15,200,00 each.

The number of passengers (including way passengers) carried over the road from May 1, 1841, to May 1, 1842, was 95,731. The number from May 20, 1840 to May 1, 1841, (11 mos. 10 days,) was 74,717. The number from May 20, 1839 to May 20, 1840 (1 year) was 75,944.

The number of tons of freight transported during the year ending April 30, 1842, was 27,596 ¹⁶⁹/₂₀₀₀ tons, viz: from May 1, 1841, to Nov. 1, 1841, 10,554 ⁶⁵⁸/₂₀₀₀ tons, and from Nov. 1, 1841, to May 1, 1842, 17,041 ¹⁵¹¹/₂₀₀₀ tons. The amount transported over the road from May 20, 1840, to May 1, 1841, (11 mos. 10 days,) was about 24,700 tons. The amount transported from May 20, 1839, to May 20, 1840 (1 year) was only 15,632 tons.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE GRANITE BRIDGE.

In compliance with the provisions of an act of the General Court of the State of New Hampshire, passed at their June session, 1839, entitled "An act, to incorporate the Granite Bridge." The undersigned, Directors of said corporation, have the honor of submitting the following Report of the acts and doings, receipts and expenditures of said corporation, for the year ending June 7th, 1842.

June 7th, 1841.

Pursuant to notice published in the Manchester Representative fourteen days previously, the proprietors of the Granite Bridge, met at Frederick G. Stark's office in Bedford, on Monday the seventh day of June, 1841, at two o'clock in the afternoon, and made choice of Frederick G. Stark for Clerk of said corporation, who was duly sworn to the faithful performance of the duties of said office, before William P. Riddle, Justice of the Peace.

The Directors then reported, that the whole amount of outlay in building the bridge, &c., is $10,281 08, and that the receipts have been as follows :

Assessments,	9,000 00
Tolls,	1,248 88
Lumber, &c. on hand,	135 86
	$10,384 74

That they have settled all the claims known to exist against this corporation, and find a balance in favor thereof, as above stated, of $103 66.

Which report was accepted.

The meeting then proceeded to the choice of a board of Directors for the ensuing year, and the following persons were duly elected, viz : William P. Riddle, Frederick G. Stark, David Hamblett, James Wallace, and John Parker.

Then proceeded to the choice of Treasurer, and Daniel Mack was elected, and duly sworn before William P. Riddle, Justice of the Peace.

Voted, That the subject of letting the tolls be referred to the Directors, who are to investigate the matter, and report at an adjourned meeting, the best plan they can devise in regard to it.

Voted, To refer to the Directors the propriety of petitioning the Legislature for an alteration of our charter, at the present session.

Voted, To adjourn this meeting, to meet again at this place on the first Monday in September next, and that notice thereof be posted at Bedford Meeting House, at Piscataquog Village, and at Manchester Village.

September 6th, 1841.

Met according to adjournment, and received the following communication from the Directors:

The undersigned, Directors of the Granite Bridge, to whom was referred the subject of letting the tolls, for crossing said bridge, having considered the subject, Report, that they cannot devise any method of permitting persons to pass said bridge on hired toll, which will operate equally; by reason of the impossibility of ascertaining beforehand how much any individual may want to pass. But notwithstanding some inequality may result from such a course, the convenience of persons who use the bridge often, seems to require that some arrangement should be made to save them the trouble of making change for the toll on every time of passing, and indeed there does not seem to be any other way of satisfying that portion of the public who use the bridge, than by letting them the right of passing by the year upon some terms. We, therefore, recommend that some person be authorized to make contracts for letting the toll for the ensuing year, to such persons as may wish to pass, on foot, or with a single carriage or sleigh, with one horse, for such sum as may be considered reasonable by the agent to be appointed for that purpose; in all cases requiring six months pay in advance, and excluding carriages of burden. That said agent be further authorized to allow all regular stage coaches to pass the bridge at the rate of one half the legal toll on their teams and coaches, on condition that they pay the said amount of half toll quarterly in advance; and that said agent be further authorized to make agreements and contracts with all persons who may wish to pass said bridge with teams and carriages of burden, at his discretion, at a rate not less than half toll, and paid at such time as may be agreed on, not exceeding quarterly; and that said agent be instructed that he, in no case is to let the toll for a sum less than one dollar per annum.

WILLIAM P. RIDDLE,
FREDERICK G. STARK,
JOHN PARKER.

Voted, To amend the foregoing report, so as to leave it discretionary with the agent to make further reductions to such persons as shall pay over seventy-five dollars tolls, not exceeding twenty-five per cent. on such excess.

Voted, To accept the report, with the foregoing amendment annexed.

Voted, To proceed to the choice of an Agent to superintend the letting of tolls; whereupon, Frederick G. Stark was chosen.

No further business coming before the meeting, it was then dissolved.

Attest, FREDERICK G. STARK, Clerk.

The whole amount of receipts for tolls and otherwise, for the past year, according to the report of our Treasurer, has been two thousand one hundred and nine dollars and fifty-five cents.

And the amount of expenditures for repairs and incidentals, has been

REPORT

OF THE COMMITTEE ON ELECTIONS.

The committee on Elections, having had under consideration the remonstrance of Zebediah Shattuck and others, against the right of Leonard W. Noyes, of Nashua, to hold a seat as a member of this House, report the following statement in relation thereto.

1st. It was shown that Nashua is entitled to four members in this House.

2d. That said town voted to bring in their votes for State and County Officers and Representatives, at the same time.

3d. That the votes for Representatives were printed upon the same piece of paper with those for State and County Officers and were cast in that form.

4th. That the list was checked but once, for all those officers.

5th. That there are 1098 checks upon the list for that balloting, and that Mr. Noyes received 537 votes.

6th. That if the checks on the list show the true number of persons who voted for Representatives, Mr. Noyes was not elected.

7th. This Mr. Noyes said he had been informed, and could prove, that some persons cast a vote only for State and County officers, having cut off all the names for Representatives, and which had been proved to be from 15 to 20.

8th. The remonstrants contended, that the check list was conclusive against him, unless he could show that enough cut off the Representative ticket, to reduce the majority to 537.

9th. It appeared that the Moderator, in order to ascertain the number necessary for a choice, wrote down the name of each candidate voted for, and set against his name the number of votes he received, and then added them all together, and divided by 8 or by 4 and by 2, which gave 536 necessary for a choice, the whole number, when added, being 4284.

10th. The remonstrants contended, that dividing the whole number by 4, did not give the true number of persons voting, because they proved that 18 persons erased a name from their several tickets, and consequently voted for but three candidates, and the votes which these 18 persons cast, being 54, should be divided by 3, and not by 4, as they did not vote for 4 candidates, and therefore by dividing their votes by 4, it gave too small a number of votes.

11th. The remonstrants also contended that the names erased from the ticket should be counted as a blank, and counted to ascertain the number necessary for a choice. If, therefore, we add 18 to the whole number, 4284, it will make 4302. This divided by 4 and by 2, gives 538 necessary for a choice, and Mr. Noyes received but 537.

12th. It was proved on the part of the sitting members, that it had not been the custom in the town of Nashua, to count ballots that had been erased, either as blanks, or in any other way.

13th. It was proved by the sitting members, that it had been the usual custom in Nashua, to set down the number of votes cast for the different individuals, and then to divide the number by 4 and by two, in order to ascertain the number necessary for a choice.

The committee, in view of all the facts presented before them, have directed me to report the following resolution:

Resolved, That Leonard W. Noyes of Nashua, from the usual custom practiced there, in relation to the manner of counting votes, was elected a Representative from said Nashua, for the year 1842.

H. D. PIERCE, for the Committee.

REPORT

OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE APPORTIONMENT BILL.

The select committee, to whom was referred so much of the message of His Excellency the Governor, as relates to the apportionment of the representation among the several States, submit the following

REPORT.

At the present session of the Congress of the United States, a bill has passed the Senate and House of Representatives, containing the following provision, "That in every case, where a State is entitled to more than one Representative, the number to which each State shall be entitled, under this apportionment, shall be elected by districts composed of contiguous territory equal in number to the number of Representatives to which each State may be entitled, no one district electing more than one Representative".

The authority of Congress to pass a law, requiring the States to be districted, for the choice of Representatives, rests upon the fourth section of the first article of the constitution of the United States, which is in the following language: "The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the legislature thereof, but the Congress may at any time, by law, make or alter such regulations, except as to the place of choosing Senators."

That the object of the framers of the constitution, was to give to the States in the first instance, the authority to adopt such regulations as they might devise for the selection of their Senators and Representatives in Congress, and to leave this whole subject entirely to their control, can hardly admit of a doubt from the language of the provision itself. It is not left optional with the States whether they will do this or not. It is imperative upon them. It is made a duty which they are bound to perform, and from which they cannot excuse themselves. Language stronger than this, giving the authority and requiring the States to make the requisite provisions, could not be used.

What then is the object of the latter clause in the article? In the view of your committee, it is an ultimate power to secure a delegation in Congress from the respective States, in case they should decline to make the necessary provision to secure that delegation, or from any contingency, should become unable to do it. Your committee cannot adopt the view that this article gives to the States and to Congress a concurrent power over this subject. If this be the true view, and Congress may at any time interfere and direct what course shall be pursued in one particular, it may extend its power to every particular, take the whole subject under its control, and deprive the States of any authority which it would seem the constitution intended to give them over the subject matter. In this case the first clause of that article becomes a dead letter in the constitution. Rights, which the States have supposed were guarantied to them, by that sacred instrument, the exercise of which has not been denied to them since the adoption of it, are thus uncereemoniously snatched from them, and an important principle in it is virtually changed, and that too without consulting the wishes of the people. A view which leads to such consequences as this cannot be the true one.

The view which your committee take of the subject is this, that primarily, the whole authority is given to the States, that they retain this authority so long as they continue to adopt the necessary regulation to secure a delegation in Congress, that when they neglect to do this, or from any emergency whatever, are rendered unable to do it, then Congress has the power to make all suitable provisions to fill up the representation. Your committee cannot believe that it was the design of that article, that the latter clause should confer upon Congress the power virtually to repeal the former clause, or that a view, which will do this, is based upon sound principles of construction.

What objection is there to the views which the committee have taken? It is only in the letter of the article which confers upon Congress the right to make or alter the regulations of the States. But it is a sound principle of construction that the whole must be taken together, and effect given to the whole if possible. The view that Congress may at its pleasure interfere is a direct violation of this principle; is an assumption to itself of all the powers; is a deprivation of the power of the States, and a virtual nullification of the first clause in the above article.

But the view which your committee take of this, on the other hand, guaranties to all parties the rights which the constitution obviously designs to confer upon them. It gives to the States their powers, while it derogates nothing from those of Congress. While your committee would most religiously guard the rights of the former, they would not in the least attempt to circumscribe the authority of the latter. They would concede to Congress the right to make all suitable laws to secure a representation from any State, which may fail from any cause to take the necessary steps to send a delegation, so that the government shall not be exposed to any of the evils apprehended from a want of this power.

Your committee are happy to find, that the early and ardent advocates of this supervisory power in Congress, did not claim a right for its exercise, except in extraordinary cases. When the Constitution was submitted to the people for their approval, a violent attack in the conventions, and by the people, was made upon this article. The evils which might grow out of it were portrayed in glowing colors, and the fears of the people alarmed. This power was then claimed for the national government, as a means of its preservation. In commenting upon this clause of the Constitution, Gen. Hamilton remarks, "*Its propriety rests upon the evidence of this plain proposition, that every government ought to contain in itself the means of its own preservation."

Again, "It will I presume be readily conceded, that there were only three ways in which this power could have been reasonably organized; that it must have been lodged wholly in the national legislature, or wholly in the State legislatures, or primarily in the latter, and ultimately in the former. The last mode has with reason been preferred by the convention. They have submitted the regulation of elections for the federal government, in the first instance to the local administrations; which in ordinary cases, and when no improper views prevail, may be both more convenient and more satisfactory; BUT THEY HAVE RESERVED TO THE NATIONAL AUTHORITY A RIGHT TO INTERPOSE, WHENEVER EXTRAORDINARY CIRCUMSTANCES MIGHT RENDER THAT INTERPOSITION NECESSARY TO ITS SAFETY."†

It would seem from this, that all the authority relating to the elections, which was asked or claimed for the government, before the adoption of the Constitution, was so much as might be necessary for its own safety and preservation; and that until some extraordinary circumstances occurred, this power was to remain in the local governments. With this understanding the people voted for the Constitution.

*Federalist, No. 59. †Vol. 2, 282.

More recent commentators on the constitution have taken the same views of the powers which the federal government have in regulating the elections. Judge Story in his Commentaries, says, "In extraordinary circumstances, the power is reserved to the national government, so that it may not be abused, and thus hazard the safety and permanence of the Union."

Again, "The Constitution gives to the State legislatures the power to regulate the time, place and manner of holding elections; and this will be so desirable a boon in their possession, on account of their ability to adopt the regulation, from time to time, to the peculiar local or political convenience of the States, that its Representatives in Congress will not be brought to assent to any general system by Congress, unless from an extreme necessity, or a very urgent exigency. It is not too much therefore to presume, that it will not be resorted to by Congress, until there has been some extraordinary abuse or danger in leaving it to the discretion of the States respectively."*

Chancellor Kent in his Commentaries upon that part of the Constitution, remarks, "The legislature of each State prescribes the times, places and manner of holding elections, subject, however, to the interference and control of Congress, which is permitted them for the sake of their own preservation, and which it is to be presumed they will never be disposed to exercise, except when any State shall neglect or refuse to make adequate provision for the purpose."

But whatever discordant views may be entertained upon the general authority of Congress to pass laws, districting the States for the choice of Representatives, it would seem there were hardly room for a diversity of opinion upon the mode in which the object is attempted to be accomplished by the present law. Congress do not undertake to form districts, but say that Representatives shall be elected by districts. Who then is to form the districts. No tribunal has this power but the legislatures of the States and the general government, and if the latter do not undertake to do this, but order it to be done, on whom is the order imperative but the local governments? What is this then but an indirect mandate to the legislatures to district their respective States, whether they will or not?

Suppose a State should refuse to adopt the district system, and elect her Representatives by general ticket, and send them to Congress, and their seats should be denied them, what is the reason to be assigned? In whatever specious language the reason of the refusal may be couched, the real reason must be, that the legislature had refused to obey the orders of the general government. From what part of the Constitution do they derive this authority? Your committee have sought for it in vain. That instrument does not confer it.

This is the first attempt which has been made by the general government to interfere in this business. The State governments have been left to pursue their own course. Every thing has gone on well. No complaint has been made. The States have furnished their quota of Senators and Representatives. The nation has suffered nothing by permitting this to be done. What apology then is there, for departing from a course which has been followed with universal approbation and satisfaction. Your committee have seen none that deserves the name of apology. The argument that the present system gives a preponderance of influence to the smaller States, is a chimera of a disordered imagination. And the argument derived from want of uniformity, applies with greater force to all other parts of the system. The true reason lies deeper than this. Ulterior objects are to be accomplished, which are studiously kept out of sight; and for the purpose of accomplishing these, the laws under which we have lived for half a century must be changed; usages to which we have been accustomed all our days, must be broken up; those who have been in the habit of giving directions, must now take and obey orders; and lastly, that sacred instrument which guarantees to us all that we hold valuable in life, must be violated and trampled in the dust.

To this we cannot, to this we are bound not to yield our assent. We are under the strongest motives of interest and obligation, to protect the constitution under which we live, from such unhallowed attacks. If we tamely submit to it the first time, we encourage, we invite future aggressions. It is a duty, we as citizens of the State owe, to resist the attempt to fasten upon us so odious a law, be the consequences what they may. Our representatives may be sent back to us; we may be without any one in the House of Representatives in the National Legislature, to defend our rights, and maintain our cause: but this we regard as a trifling evil in comparison with the greater one of giving our sanction, by adopting the law, to a palpable infraction of the palladium of our rights.

The committee have directed me to report the following resolutions.

B. BORDMAN, for the Committee.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That the Constitution of the United States gives to the Legislature of each State the right to prescribe the times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives in the Congress of the United States.

Resolved, That so long as the States continue to exercise this power, so as to secure a representation in Congress, the National Legislature do not possess the right to interfere with and control such regulations.

Resolved, That when the Legislature of any State shall fail to adopt such regulations, then, and then only, Congress may do it.

Resolved, That the Constitution of the United States does not confer upon Congress the right to control the legislation of the States, and prescribe to the legislatures what course they shall pursue.

Resolved, That whenever a case shall occur, which shall warrant any action on the part of the General Government, relative to the elections, the times, places and manner of holding the elections must be prescribed by Congress directly, and not through the State Government.

Resolved, That the recent act of Congress, directing the States to be districted for the choice of Representatives to Congress, is a direct violation of the provisions of the federal compact, and we cannot regard the same as binding upon the States.

Resolved, That we cannot sanction so unauthorized an interference in our domestic relations on the part of Congress, and shall therefore decline to district this State for the choice of representatives in Congress.

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be directed to transmit to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress a copy of the foregoing resolutions.

B. BORDMAN, for the Committee.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress assembled, That the Constitution of the United States
